Explore Germany while Learning German

At our International Lomonosov Language Camp in Berlin you can meet students from all over the world. They all share a common goal: To learn German and discover the country.

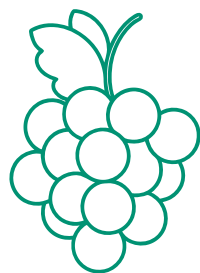

There is a lot to see in Berlin. From Monday till Friday participants enjoy a lively and varied cultural program in the afternoons, offering insight into Germany and life in the capital city. It's a mix of city exploration and museum visits. On Saturdays, participants can take a trip to another city, such as Potsdam, Warnemünde or the Spreewald region.

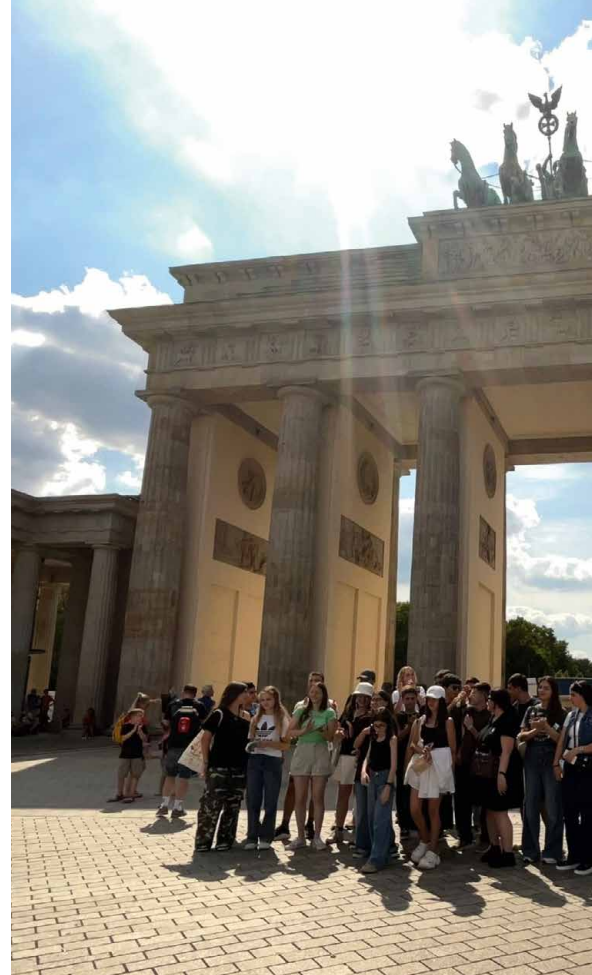

A walk through Potsdam is like a journey through Europe.

The participants of a language camp have an opportunity to spend a wonderful weekend in Potsdam.

On a walk through parks and palaces students are introduced to the spirit and splendor of the Prussian era, culminating in the visit to Sanssouci Palace, the magnificent summer residence of Frederick the Great.

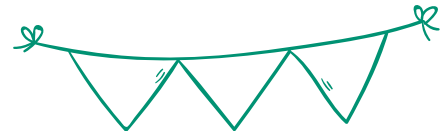

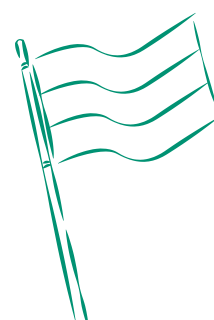

Learning German and having fun go hand in hand!

For a day, the students of the language camp step into a world of knights and ladies, tournaments and gold hunters.

In the quest game "Rheingold" participants experience an exciting adventure – a real magical journey with multiple thrilling levels!

Afterwards, knowledge of German history is tested.

Our Lomonosov Camp Berlin offers a perfect mix of culture and workshops. If you are interested in a craft activity alongside your German course, you can choose the following workshops: making your own Berlin Buddy Bears or designing a T-Shirt according to your own style, letting your creativity and imagination run free.

Multilingual Community – Friendships Across Borders

A language camp gives the students from around the world the chance to enhance their language skills while gaining valuable intercultural experience.

In just one week, students form new friendships that cross geographical and cultural boundaries. They learn to value the cultural diversity while discovering the shared connections that unite them.

The international language camp demonstrates the importance and value of intercultural encounters, and how they can be fostered through shared activities like sports, cooking and games. The children return to their home countries enriched with new experience and friendships.

What's the best way to get to know each other? Colorful balloons, joyful music and energetic games!

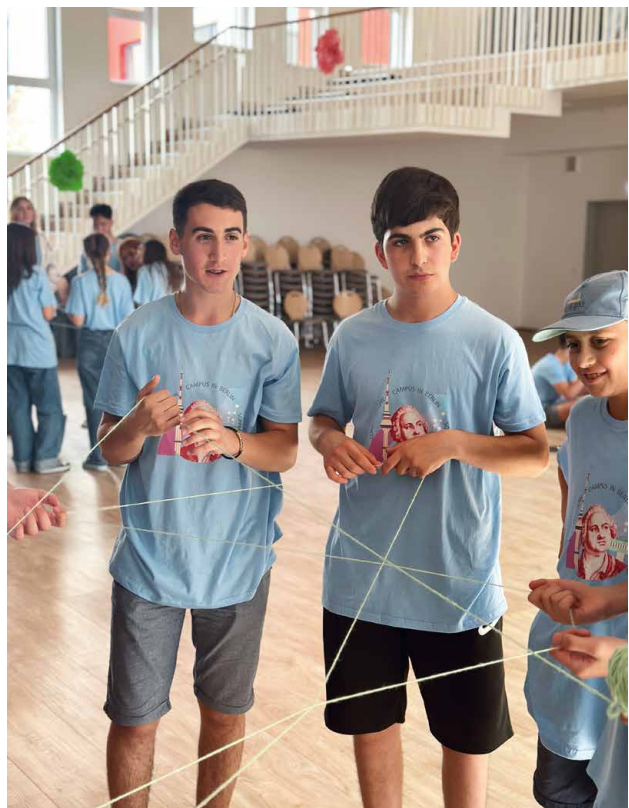

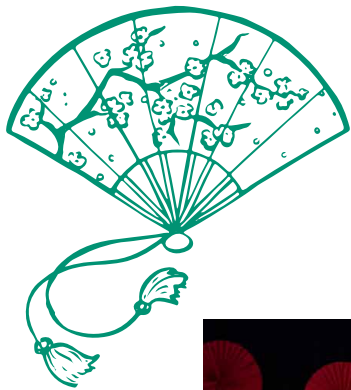

The participants of a language camp have an opportunity to visit an International Lomonosov-School Berlin-Marzahn and take part in its school life. An atmospheric historic building, set within a late 19th-century architectural and park ensemble, captivates everyone who visits. The students can join the lessons and get a firsthand experience of how learning process takes place in Germany.

At the International Lomonosov Language Camp Berlin, participants regularly enjoy a dynamic program of concerts and leisure activities.

The unforgettable performances of traditional songs and dances always leave everyone in the audience spellbound. The concerts are always full of surprises and simply delightful. Everyone will find something they enjoy.

Intercultural Meetings and Sport Activities

"To begin with, I would like to say that this isn't my first experience at a camp abroad. I've attended two camps before, but this is the first one focused on learning German. Attending an international language camp in Berlin made a deep impression on me. The relationships among the children were truly exceptional – it was the friendliest camp I've ever attended. I was very happy to make new friends, and I still keep in touch with many of them.

I am convinced that attending the language camp abroad means much more than just learning a new language and experiencing a foreign culture. It's also about developing communication skills and gaining a sense of independence. The children learn to live away from home and discover how daily life works in different countries.

This language camp provided me with unforgettable experience and I'm deeply thankful for that."

Anvar, A. 16 years old

"My stay at International Lomonosov Language Camp in Berlin made a deep impression on me. Thanks to this wonderful opportunity, I was able to get to know the fascinating city of Berlin and its rich history. I was truly impressed by the Sanssouci Palace Park in Potsdam – a place that I will never forget.

International camps like this are very important for children today, as they allow them to learn from an early age how people live in different countries. At the same time, they have the opportunity to learn the German language and improve their communication skills. Of course, at a camp like these children miss their families. I was lucky to spend the whole time here with my brother, which made me close and secure, like at home.

In conclusion, I want to say that my time at Lomonosov School allowed me to take a closer look at life in Germany. I would like to thank sincerely Mrs. Wallburg, my German teacher at the language camp. Her amazing and extraordinary lessons truly inspired me. Many thanks, and I wish you all the best and success in your work!"

Alikhan, M., 14 years old

"The journey to Berlin and the participating on the language camp left me with very positive memories. The camp had a welcoming and warm atmosphere, and this educational experience was very meaningful for me. It was a chance to see how children in Berlin live their daily lives.

Attending classes at the International Lomonosov School I could meet people from many countries. It was a pleasure continuing my studies alongside my new friends.

There is a Kyrgyz saying: "Seeing something once is better than hearing about it a thousand times." This experience broadened my horizons and gave me a deeper understanding of other cultures.

I am sincerely grateful to the organizers and all participants of this project. It was a wonderful and fulfilling adventure!"

Akylai, I., 15 years old

"I was captivated by Berlin's history, architecture and beautiful nature. I especially enjoyed getting to know Berlin people and their way of life. I was struck by how naturally they engage with their surroundings and appreciate its beauty. That's something we could learn from them. Camps like this help young people connect and communicate with people from various cultures.

Camp participants step out of their comfort zones, become independent, and, as a bonus, make friends from across the globe. Personally, I no longer feel a language barrier, and I've made a big progress in both German and English. I've learned to find common ground with people from different backgrounds. I truly believe that every teenager should be able to take part in a camp like this."
